

Overview

In today's ever-changing environment, Transition programs face many unique challenges. A small number of counselors are asked to provide a variety of services, as well as extensive documentation and reporting, while striving to increase the success of their students.

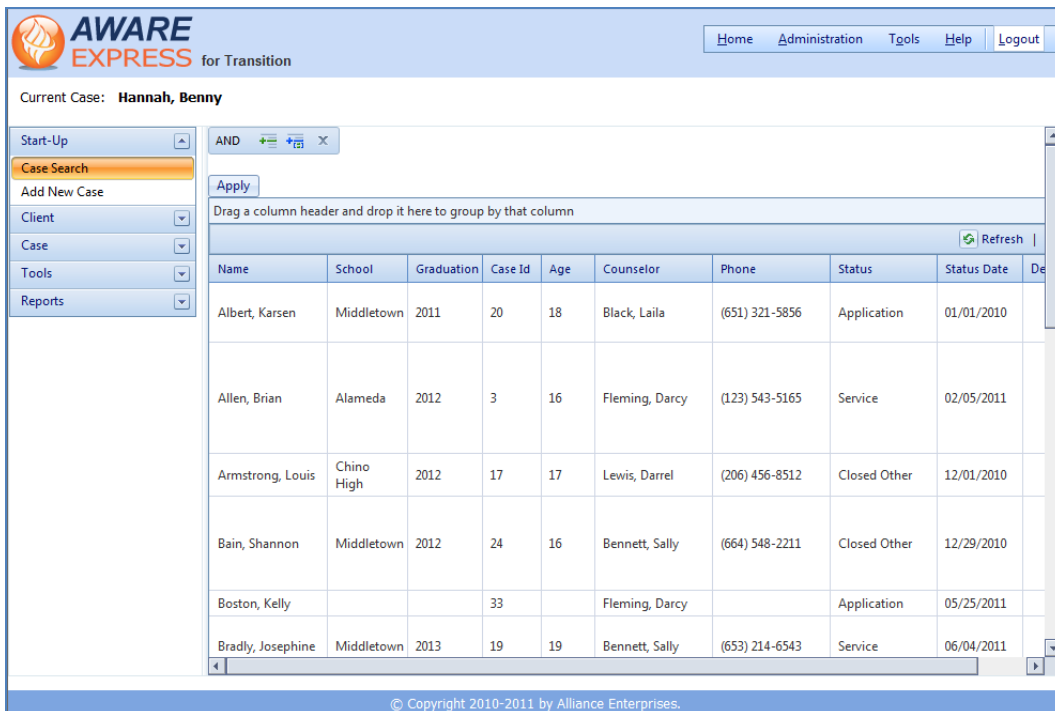

Automated case management systems are a proven means of increasing both the productivity of counselors and successful outcomes. The needs of Transition professionals have matured beyond managing cases through MS Excel or Access-based applications. Your requirements dictate a more complete, user-friendly solution, a solution that will allow you more time with your students.

AWARE Express for Transition

AWARE Express offers Transition programs a powerful case management solution that is easy to use and secure.

- Developed specifically for the unique requirements of Transition based on leading VR industry best practices.
- Secure, hosted environment allows multiple users to use the system at the same time.
